

About Us

Strategic Security Services strives to provide state-of-the-art training with the best instructors in the business. Terrorism is a wide-spread cancer that has now plagued the United States. We need to be more proactive and not reactive. We need to train and prepare for the worst.

Our instructors wrote these programs based on real-world combat experience. We know what works. A lot of companies claim to be the best in the business, but not many can prove it. If you are thinking about a tactical program for your department or agency, we invite you to observe any of our programs. You will see the professional platform of instruction and the training that we provide. We provide training from one-day seminars, to 30-day programs. We will meet and exceed your department or agency's needs.
